

Aloft News - May 2019

Welcome, new members! Harry Nakamoto returns to the Aloft, with his sought after pottery, Carole and Ron Kamerlink with a great selection of flamed copper and silver jewelry. Linda Swedlund brings amazing rocks embellished with fine mosaics. Beth Robinson is a dedicated Plein Aire oil painter, and last but not least is Diana Boegel who brings traditional, realistic paintings to the Aloft. Diana works in several mediums, including oils and pastel.

Reggie Hein has an incredible contemporary display in the window, rivaling any large city gallery! Great job, Kate and Reggie!

Thank you all for another successful change-out. Everyone was present or accounted for, bringing great energy and lively discussions about art, greetings, and introductions.

The Under the Bed sale was a huge success! Our sales for April were a record $5,503.75 thanks to your participation.

The desk has been moved to the front in order to create more floor space for 3D. Wrapping supplies are in the cupboard under the window and bags are hanging on the file cabinet. For security reasons, gather wrapping supplies from the back if needed and try to wrap at the desk.

The bottom drawer of the file cabinet can be used to store personal belongings. Security is more of an issue now, so be vigilant. Keep the cash box locked and tuck the key under something in the drawer. There is a new phone with a handset on the back desk. Please keep the area around the desk tidy, as there is not much space.

Our general meeting is next Saturday at 10:00 at the Aloft. Bring your ideas, comments and chairs. We'll have coffee and goodies.

Take advantage of the 1st day of the Farmer's Market and stay over for Old West Fest activities. Of course all this fun stuff in town creates parking issues, so try to come a little early!
